Upon These Arguments We Rest Our Case

YOU, the buyers, are the real builders of wagons. You put the final Okay upon the use of certain materials and construction when you buy a wagon containing them—and refuse to buy a wagon that does not. We want to show you how the Thornhill Wagon is built. Upon a plain statement of facts we are trying to rest our case. We believe the Thornhill way would be your way if you should build a wagon.

For poles and axles, too, a second growth highland hickory is used. For hubs and felloes the sturdy white oak is preferred. This wood grows upon the mountain side. The ground is hard—the climate severe. It is to fight for life. It has nearly twice the strength of oak and hickory that grows under softer conditions. Outdoors under shelter it remains for three to five years. The sap dries in it, giving it a strength that's kin to steel.

THORNHILL WAGONS

Full Circle Iron
Malleable Front Houn Plate

bolsters Can't lang In Turning

in turning and backing up, with the ordinary circle iron, which is only a half circle, bolsters run off the end of the track and ang. It is difficult to make short turns and back up. The Thornhill full circle iron gives a continuous track on which the bolsters can turn.

The gears of Thornhill wagons stay in line for life. Instead of the usual front bound plate, bound plate of malleable iron is used. It is metal jacket braced at eight points that keeps gears from ever getting out of line.

Trussed Bolsters and Gears

Note the Adjustable
Brake Lever

On the front bolsters of Thornhill wagons are heavy iron plates running along top and bottom—connected by rivets that run clear through the bolster. Strength and lightness are combined. Rear gears are strongly ironed. There are braces on both top and bottom that extend the full length of the hounds.

Solid trust bars extend the full length of the axles giving them double strength.

Long Wear Beds

If you examine the beds of Thornhill Wagons closely you will see at once the superiority of the construction. The bottoms are re-inforced over front and rear bolsters.

Come in and examine this wagon for yourself. We will take pleasure and pride in showing you a Thornhill—The wagon made of tough highland oak and hickory—with features all others lack.
